

TFL president pens op-ed on civility in USA Today

Have you noticed how bitter and angry people are on social media these days? How biased and divided the news coverage seems to be? How politics is becoming practically violent?

Whatever happened to respecting another human being, even if they disagree with you?

Civility and human decency are in short supply in America today. But in a column in USA Today, The FAMiLY LEADER President and CEO Bob Vander Plaats outlines a counter-cultural solution to rebuilding civility.

Read Bob's USA Today column in its entirety by clicking here now!

"We need counter-cultural," Bob writes. "We need to do exactly the opposite of what our culture is doing if we're going to turn the culture of incivility around."

Read Bob's proposal for how you and I can "Fight on the Side of Civility in America's Social Media Civil War" at USAToday.com now!