

VIDEO: Bob and LGBTQ activist share message of civility

The FAMIly LEADER's Bob Vander Plaats and former One Iowa Director Donna Red Wing, a prominent national voice of LGBTQ activism, have formed an unlikely, but exemplary friendship.

Choosing to approach one another with respect, as neighbors rather than enemies, they have sparked a national interest in restoring civil dialogue, especially in a country so often bitterly divided.

First reported in the Des Moines Register, their friendship has also been reported by the Washington Post and by Mutual of Omaha. Various colleges, as well, have invited Bob and Donna to share with students the secrets of their civil dialogue, a secret Bob sums up in one phrase: "Speaking the truth in love" (Ephesians 4:15).

On March 6, Bob and Donna spoke to students at Des Moines Area Community College, or DMACC, in Ankeny, Iowa. The second video below is a recording of that conversation. The first video was created by Mutual of Omaha to introduce Bob and Donna's relationship and was frequently referenced at the DMACC event. We recommend you watch the Mutual of Omaha video first:

Mutual of Omaha:

DMACC:

If civil dialogue and "speaking the truth in love" has touched YOUR heart the way it has ours, would you consider making a donation to the work of The FAMIly LEADER today? Your gift of $25, $50, $100, or more helps us in the mission of cultural transformation and the vision of a revived America that honors God and blesses real people. Click here to give today!